

The video links :

1. <https://youtu.be/UxplleuKrGI>
2. <https://youtu.be/9coD48F58S4>
3. <https://youtu.be/IIFexT32JKs>

MyBlog link look at more drawings and the process:

<https://fruzsinahuszar.myblog.arts.ac.uk/2021/10/02/hello-world/>

This week was very interesting. It was very fun to make sounds and create visuals for them. It really made me think about the whole process and that everything has a meaning in my work. The way the sounds tempo is to what color scheme will my visuals have.

My outcomes look very good in my opinion. As for the planning of the outcomes I did do a few sketches to have a goal but I just went and created the sounds first and just did the visuals the way I saw them in my head when I listened to the sounds.

Overall the first one is supposed to be relaxing. I recorded my train ride from my sister's house and it just felt very chill. I really wanted to catch that feeling of being relaxed on the train ride to home.

For my second I wanted to achieve a fuzzy warm but also dizzy or trippy feeling from the video. I just wanted to go abstract from the first video to show contrast in day to day life how quickly life changes.

Finally for my third I just went with a sci fi look to do something different from the others. Also I didn't want them to have same themes therefore I tried my best to do different visuals.

My favorite is the first one mainly because I could watch it on loop for hours and just feel relaxed.